

WOMEN WHO SHAPED MONTREAL'S FIRST CENTURY

Meet 17th century corseted pioneers through storytelling in Old Montreal

Strong women played major roles in the founding of Montreal and its survival in the late 17th and early 18th century.

Join me on a three-hour journey through time in Old Montreal with its exquisite architecture, cobblestone streets and old-world charm.

You'll retrace the steps of three generations of women from the Godé family, the founder of the oldest hospital north of Mexico, Canada's first historian, and a trailblazing teacher and "matchmaking facilitator".

I will share stories you likely won't find in guidebooks, giving you a deeper understanding of what life was like in the early years of the colony.
